The supervisor will determine if they have a need for more adjunct faculty in that area. If so, they will provide you with the necessary paperwork which allows us to verify if you are certifiable by the Wisconsin Technical College System (WTCS), and enter you on the MPTC payroll system. An overview from the WTCS website on certification is located at <http://systemattic.wtcsystem.edu/certification/default.htm>

The certification process begins after you are hired at one of the sixteen technical college districts. The Instructional Supervisor and/or the District certification office will ask you to obtain documentation required by the WTCS. This includes an application form, transcripts and forms from current or previous employers verifying your work experience. The WTCS staff will review the district's request for your certification, and, if approved, a certificate is issued to you and the district certification office.
